

Jacopo Peracchio

A sociologist specializing in the analysis of emerging social phenomena such as structured criminal organizations, terrorist groups, and subversive movements.

I use a mixed-methods approach, drawing on machine learning, OSINT, and ethnographic techniques.

As someone passionate about IT architecture and hardware modding, I enjoy combining the rigor of academic research with a deep understanding of the cyber domain and its social implications.

WORK EXPERIENCE

Human Resources Intern - Internship
ADECCO S.P.A

Ott. 2022 - Gen. 2023

Recruitment, selection, and evaluation of personnel in a highly structured multinational environment. Analysis and profiling of candidates through document screening and the conduct of targeted interviews, both independently and in a paired setting (dyad). Management and updating of company databases containing sensitive personal data, in strict compliance with privacy guidelines and the GDPR (EU Reg. 2016/679). Assessment of soft skills and behavioral analysis. This experience has strengthened my interpersonal skills, my ability to elicit information through interview techniques, and my understanding of complex organizational dynamics.

Office Clerk - Internship

Gen. 2022 - Mar. 2022

Tribunale di Sorveglianza di Firenze

Operational and administrative support for the office's activities, with a focus on the management and classification of files containing sensitive judicial data. Acquisition of practical skills in using the public administration's information and record-keeping systems. In-depth study of public employment regulations and administrative procedures. This experience has strengthened the ability to work both as part of a team and completely independently, supporting the workload while strictly adhering to confidentiality protocols, official secrecy, and the security of institutional information.
